BOTH RICHMOND & HAMPDEN-SIDNEY TAKE VICTORIES WITH ALL EASE

The Cup of Sorrow is Passed Around for the 15th Successive Time. College Drinks to Dregs

Richmond College won one of its infrequent victories over a William and Mary team on Wednesday last, defeating the local nine in an exciting game by the score of 6-4.

Jones started on the mound for the locals, and Ancarrow lead off with a single. Beale doubled to right, and both scored when the ball rolled past Wilson. The Orange and Black drew a goose-egg for the first four innings, but the Spiders kept coming in the second. Clark singled, Woodward fouled out to Games, and Wiley started one over second which scored Clark, scoring himself a moment later on a swiped station and Beale's singles. Shiers then succeeded Lewis on the mound, and killed the fun by striking out Mr. Meredith. In the next inning Lewis singled with two down, scoring on Clarke's hit, but after this, Shiers was invincible.

RALLY IN THE FIFTH

The locals took a great rally in the fifth, after Gwaltney had succeeded Meredith as the Spiders' flinger. Hubbard drew a pass, went to second, and scored on Shiers' single. Alfried then cut loose with a two-bagger scoring Shiers and romping home on Addison's safety. Clark, however caught the latter asleep on first, and Dix fled out. Garth hit safely and went to second when Lewis fozzled Games' hot grounder, but Wilson fanned the air. One more was added in the ninth on errors and a hit by Garth, but a brilliant catch on Wilson ended all hope.

HAMPDEN-SIDNEY SATURDAY

Hampden-Sidney annexed the big end of an 8-1 score on Saturday on a field better adapted to canoeing than baseball. The locals started out with a rush, Garth nailing a three bagger into deep center, and scoring on Peachy's safety. Lewis hit Dix, and Hubbard and Addison both got one, but the heady playing of H-S prevented more scoring. Jones for W. and M. dished out scoreless innings for the first two periods, but Garth's error with two down was followed by two hits, and Wysor scored for H-S. Painter came up in the next inning and rap-

W. AND M. A. AND HAMPTON GAME

In the only game which the management of the Academy baseball team has secured for them, the Ducs were defeated by the Hampton High School nine here on Saturday afternoon by the score of 8-2.

The game was clean and fair throughout. The visitors were as nice a bunch of prep school athletes as were ever seen at William and Mary. Bringing a husky bunch of rooters with them, they made Cary Field ring with cries of Hampton.

The Ducs put up a good game considering the fact that it is their first

THE WILLIAM & MARY QUARTERLY ENDS YEAR WITH APRIL ISSUE

Number Four of Volume XX Has the Usual Amount of Valuable Historical Essays etc.

The April issue, number four of volume twenty, of the William and Mary College Quarterly has been received. This number ends the year and volume, and must be ranked among the best ever prepared by Dr. Tyler, who founded the publication twenty years ago. As a contribution to Virginia, and therefore Southern History it has no equal, going as it does to the fountain head and genesis of all subjects, and presenting the facts accurately and impartially.

THIS NUMBER CONTAINS

as the first article an account of paper money in Colonial Virginia in which it may be seen how prominent and how disastrous a part this form of currency played in early Virginia. The case of Mr. John Robinson, Treasurer of the Colony from 1738 to 1768, and also Speaker of the House of Burgesses, is given in detail and exonerates that gentleman from the strong accusations of the early chroniclers.

The genealogical notes are extensive and contain sketches of the Fox, Taliaferro, Roper, and Eldridge families. The data of the Taliaferro family is a continuation of an interesting serial on that prominent family of Virginia.

The crop book of Colonel Landon Carter sheds light on the agriculture of the latter part of the eighteenth century. The diary of Dr. John H. Bock of Buckingham County is quoted; and a will of Mary Cary of Surry County, printed in its entirety, contains a wealth of detail, showing the contents of a well arranged household at the beginning of the last century. It is not known who this lady was, but she must not be confused with the beautiful Mary Cary, of Williamsburg, the first love of Washington.

Other contributions are Letter of John Maund, Letter of Benjamin R. Pollard, Ministers' Bonds of Pittsylvania County, and Historical and Genealogical notes.

A reader of THE FLAT HAT in New York sent in the following definition which she had gotten fresh from California: A suffragist is a woman who wants suffrage; a suffragette is one who bites the policeman.

MOTHER GOOSE PAGEANT UNIQUE. GIVEN FRIDAY IN THE PLAYERS' DELL

One Hundred and Fifty Characters Take Part in This Most Spectacular Event of the Year

On Friday afternoon last Player's Dell was the scene of the bright Mother Goose Pageant, the little opera, The House that Jack Built, given by the children of the Matthew Whaley School and superintended by Misses Davis and Stillwell.

PARADE TO THE COLLEGE

Forming at the School the brilliant assemblage of more than one hundred and fifty men, women, and children headed by Old King Cole in the person of the Rev. Mr. Heathorn, and his queen, Mrs. L. W. Lane, Jr., followed by courtiers, retainers, and all the inhabitants of Mother Goose land wended its way to the College Campus and thence to Player's Dell. The Dell was staged as a beautiful little arbor into which at the summons of Old King Cole, Mrs. Miles as Mother Goose brought her family of fairies, elves and animals. There was the pig that was eat and Tom that was beat, Mary's famous little lamb, the priest all shaven and shorn, Jack Spratt and his plump wife, the dog that got stung on the bone and many other characters celebrated in the song and story of Mother Goose.

Miss Rose Emory caused much merriment as she rode through the dell with rings on her fingers and bells on her horse's bridle, pursuing her way to Banbury Cross, which lies on the west of Player's Dell. One of the prettiest scenes of the pageant was the fairy dance taken part in by the fairest of the little misses of the country. Mary quite contrary and Daffy Downy Dilly were idyllic pictures of those stories and the sweet voices of Miss Cole and Miss Bozarth lent attractiveness to the scene.

ALL WELL, AND ENDED WELL

The King and his Queen occupied the centre of the background with their courtiers, jesters, heralds, sages, and the fiddler's three. Gathered around, in the middle ground were the little butterfly fairies and in front lay the road to Banbury Cross.

Altogether it was a brilliant affair and many pleased and gratified parents went away with nine foot parental smiles upon their visages

HOW THE UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA CAME BY THE HONOUR SYSTEM

Some weeks ago there appeared in these columns an account of how William and Mary was the mother and disseminator of the now famous Honour System, and as how the University of Virginia laid claim to the distinction of its authorship. At this present writing it will be shown how the University came by the System which she chooses to proclaim as her own.

It had its inception at the University of Virginia in Eighteen Hundred and Forty-two when a resolution of the Faculty, introduced by Judge Henry St. George Tucker, was passed,* by which each student was required to append to his examination paper a pledge that he had neither given nor received any assistance on the examination. This was the genesis of the System at the University; this is how it was transplanted from William and Mary where a student's word was taken for everything; this is the connecting link between the two, as will be shown hereinafter.

There were given before these facts: Dr. Tyler attributes the genesis of the System to the new era which began with President Madison in Seventeen Hundred and Seventy-nine; the printed rules of the Visitors in Eighteen Hundred and Seventeen contain official recognition of the System, whereby a student might give evidence of his guilt or innocence; and again in Eighteen Hundred and Thirty another 'Statute for the Good Government of the College of William and Mary,' gave even a clearer phrasing whereby the Faculty was to 'confer' with a student under suspicion and to take his word implicitly. Judge Nathaniel Beverley Tucker later, in Eighteen Hundred and Thirty-four, referred to the System in an introductory address to his law class as one of long standing. Judge Tucker was a student here as early as Eighteen Hundred and One, and his brother Henry St. George Tucker, who afterwards became a distinguished Judge, and the professor of law in the University of Virginia already mentioned, was also a student at the College about the same time; and it was he who in Eighteen Hundred and Forty-two introduced the Honour System into the University of Virginia, as shown repeatedly in the history of the University by Dr. Paul Barringer and Dr. Jas. M. Garnett.

The Honour System was an evolutionary growth at the College during the Eighteenth Century out of the 'Character and traditions of Virginia Life' and William and Mary 'did but become the natural exponent of the character of the people to which she owed her existence.' Such was the spirit of the place when the two distinguished Tucker brothers were here at college.

Mr. Jefferson attempted to inaugurate student government at the University when he opened it, but the young men there at that time were wild and more lawless than the type of men that Mr. Jefferson had known at his Alma Mater. Dissension and revolt resulted, and not until Judge Tucker's resolution of Eighteen Hundred and Forty-two may the Honour System be said to exist at this new institution. This innovation was simply the institution of the spirit which he knew from his associations with William and Mary.

From the history of the University mentioned above are frequent protests against the Honour System being called the 'Princeton System' and claiming that it should be called the 'University of Virginia System.' An article by one of the joint authors of that history appeared in The University of Virginia Magazine for Eighteen Hundred and Ninety-five attempting to show the validity of this claim. But the time has come when by all fair-minded men the System must be called the 'William and Mary System.'

*See History of the University of Virginia, by Barringer and Garnett, Vol. I, pp. 128, 142, 149, 212, 214, 264.

A WORD OF PROTEST

We have heard from several sources that the promoters of the Summer School were hoping to have a continuation of THE FLAT HAT during that term, and had sought the assistance of several young men around the College toward a realization of that plan. Nothing has been said to us, but if such be true we want to take this means of stating that we are unwilling that our name be used for such a purpose, and that it will be so used under protest. A weekly during that period would be of unquestioned value, and the Summer School will do well to maintain one, but we do not believe that it would be just to the HAT to transplant it to foreign soil. It may not be worn with the same eclat outside of the venerable precincts of the triangular Green of the College, and at most, it should not be carted out of the Old Capital. Our contemporary, College Topics, is continued through the summer at the University, but under another name we assure you.

Doubtless after the outrageous vandalism committed in the Dell Friday, the College authorities will take some definite steps to preserve the College property from town toughs.

The Mother Goose Pageant was the most ingenious production of the year. When ladies put their heads together, beware! Nothing remains but victory.

DR. WILSON AT PRINCETON

Dr. James Southall Wilson represented the College of William and John Grier Hibben as President of

LECTURE ON AFRICA

Dr. R. H. Stone delivered an interesting lecture on the interior of Africa on Thursday evening in the Chapel to an appreciative audience.
Dr. Stone spent many years in that vague quarter of the earth and told of his personal adventures there, where the peril of death and hardships of every sort furnished so many thrilling experiences. Few of his hearers had conceived of the extent of the population, or of the magnitude of the cities in central Africa before hearing Dr. Stone's address.

CATCHES FLOCK OF WILD DUCKS

Last week while canoeing on Lake Matoaka Mr. Theo. Barrow, made an unusual catch in the form of five young wild ducks. Just how he managed such an exploit is not known, and may never be, but as he now has the ducklings in his private museum, the public must concede that he caught them, notwithstanding the well-known beautiful way in which such fowls conduct themselves on the water and under
it. Another chapter has been added to the Munchausen cycle, and the distinction is no small one, even to the College, alma mater of four Presidents, and Mother of America.

ped out a triple, and this with a succession of errors behind Shiers who went to the relief of Jones gave H.-S. four more. The rain came down harder every minute, and the game was stopped for awhile, but finally started again, Lewis having held the boys scoreless after the first inning. H.-S. went to bat in a pouring shower in the sixth, the field lined with mud, and scored three more before "Sel" Harris, the umpire, put a stop to the mud-march.

FIRE CHIEF BLITZER

Friday afternoon just before the Mother Goose Pageant, some wantonly mischievous townboy set fire to one of the picturesque old trees in the Players' Dell. The tree was hollow and the straw placed inside and lighted started the fire which burned for several hours and ruined one of the favorite landmarks of the Dell. Sweeney Blitzer commissioned himself fire chief and collected a valiant company. The fire burned on through the performance in spite of the vigilant fire fighters. The water poured in from the top did not seem to reach the fire.

A spectacular feature of the tragedy was the flying leap from the tree-top by Chief Blitzer, which greatly excited the crowd. He was censured for offering acrobatic stunts in opposition to the pageant, but it was afterwards learned that he had bravely made a leap for life, and he received a prolonged ovation.
